Crestview names head football coach

After an extensive search, Crestview has named Van Wert defensive coordinator Trent Temple as its new head football coach. Temple has served 14 total years as an assistant at Van Wert, with the last five being defensive coordinator. He has had stints coaching various levels of baseball, track, and wrestling at Van Wert. Temple, a graduate of Van Wert High School, was also the defensive coordinator for the 2005 Crestview team which participated in the OHSAA playoffs.

Temple currently works at Van Wert High School where he serves as the in-school suspension supervisor, attendance officer, and middle school athletic director.

Trent and his wife, Amanda, reside in rural Van Wert with their five year old son, Mitchell, and five month old daughter, Marley.
